Set Train on Fire.
Oleason, Oct. 2.—A train having on board 200 persons, was held up last night by a band of robbers who opened the mail car by an explosion of dynamite. The explosion set the car on fire and the flames communicated to the loaded passenger car. The result that several women and children were badly burned before they could escape. While the robbers were trying to open the safe in the mail car they were attacked by guards. Several on both sides were wounded, but the robbers escaped.

High Price of Bread in Ottawa.
Ottawa, Oct. 2.—All Ottawa bakers today announced to their customers that bread is up and is now 12 cents a loaf. This is the highest it has been here in eight years and is the second increase since June. The increase in the price of flour is the cause, it costing $1.25 per barrel more than it did early in June. The bakers say that when selling at eleven cents a loaf they were making more than they are now, so high has flour gone.

STRATHCONA NEWS

WORK WAS BEGUN TODAY ON THE BIG GAS PLANT.

Operations Commenced in Strathcona by International Lighting & Heating Co.—Central Plant May Be in Strathcona.

Work of excavation for the main pipes was begun this morning in Strathcona by the International Heating & Lighting Co., who have the franchise for artificial gas production in Edmonton and Strathcona.

A viaduct was made on Lundon avenue and the trenching work will proceed along that thoroughfare through the railway track. The operations are in charge of W. J. Graham, who has formerly employed in the trenching work in connection with the Edmonton waterworks. Furman Graham will have a staff of from ten to fifteen men and if the weather keeps fine the excavations will be pushed forward as far as possible this fall.

The location of the central plant which is to furnish gas for the two cities is a question of much speculation during the past few weeks. Speaking to the Bulletin representative this morning Cyrus S. Keston, the western business manager of the company, said:

"You may state that in all probability the plant will be located in Strathcona. We have not yet positively decided as to its location but indications are that Strathcona will get it."

Such a bonum will be of great value to the southern city and will bring increased business to its bankers. The company propose to spend over $300,000 in the construction and will employ about two hundred men on the work.

LOCALS.

The Strathcona and Edmonton race by football teams will meet at the Strathcona fair grounds on Saturday afternoon. The Strathcona team has been much strengthened recently and are confident of victory.

FIR VERSUS SPRUCE.

Editor Bulletin.
Since our petition regarding slide walks has been brought before the public through the papers it may be of interest to the public to know what disposition was made of it by the city council of Wetaskiwin to which the said petition was addressed.
We were led to draw up this petition and circulate it because at a previous meeting of the council which tenders for the construction of slide walks, were considered the council rejected our tender which was 25 per cent. lower than any other on the grounds that native spruce was not fit for slide walks and that the public would object to its use and as their preference in the council had been exclusively any other material for their part would not be favorably received by the public whose humble servants they were.

By our pleading to them in the name of common sense and economy to protect home industry and keep the public money in circulation in our own locality, they agreed to reconsider the matter at their next meeting.

Now it occurred to us that men interested in the sale of it might have been influencing former council of Wetaskiwin and might be influencing this one also. In order to find out if public sentiment was the sole motive power of the council of Wetaskiwin, we drew up a petition from the citizens to the council, and in about four hours we secured fifty signatures from those located in the business part of the city and found that public sentiment was almost unanimous in favor of home industry and economy.

We confidently believe three-fourths of the taxpayers of the city would sign this petition if solicited.

We presented our petition with the statement of Mr. Wallace regarding the durability of spruce at the next council meeting. It was read to the council by the city clerk and Mayor MacEachern offered a resolution to it. It was not voted on at all and the only remarks made concerning it were that the people who signed it had good walks and did not care for other people's so long as they did not have too much tax to pay and as they were elected to look after the public good they must insist on using fir and save future trouble.

The council then proceeded to divide the city lumber money between the two yards that handle fir and are operated by the lumber associations. This seemed an injustice to our petitioners, found most of the sales in the Capital city made of 2x8 price and got a letter from the city engineer, recommending spruce for sidewalks.

We take this opportunity to publicly thank Mayor MacEachern for his courtesy in giving us a fair and impartial hearing before the city council.—Papezian & Nelson, Wetaskiwin, Sept. 29th, 1907.

Repeats the Charge.

Vancouver, Sept. 25.—Mr. McNeill may as well be like, but he cannot get away from the fact that he told the secretary of state, that the governor had voted the Bowser bill, but that he had instructed him not to sign it, and that this was confirmed by the governor himself. So spoke Mr. R. G. Macpherson Saturday.

Continuing, Mr. Macpherson said that there was no excuse for Mr. McNeill. He had publicly given as an opponent of Asiatic immigration, had led a House which was unanimous on the question, and had then gone in to the governor's room and advised him that he was not to sign the bill.

"Did he tell the House anything Mr. McNeill?" asked Mr. Macpherson. "Did he tell his colleagues or even Mr. Bowser that the bill was dead?" asked Mr. Macpherson. "And by the way, was Mr. Bowser willing that the bill should be vetoed by the legislative council?" "Did he tell his colleagues or even Mr. Bowser that the bill was dead?" asked Mr. Macpherson. "And by the way, was Mr. Bowser willing that the bill should be vetoed by the legislative council?"

Lemieux to go to Tokio.

Ottawa, Oct. 2.—It is found that Hon. Rudolph Lemieux, elected from parliament during the past of the coming session will not seriously interfere with the legislative program.

Mr. Lemieux is a member of the minister selected by the government to go to Tokio on the 29th to confer with the Japanese government in respect to immigration and trade relations between the two countries. Mr. Lemieux is especially equipped for the task. He was in close touch with Prince Fushimi during the visit of the Japanese member of the royal family in Ottawa, and as minister of labor would naturally be entrusted with a mission which so intimately concerns the interests of the laboring classes in British Columbia. "It is not improbable that the minister may be accompanied by a high official of the government who would supplement former diplomatic efforts by collecting the hand information as to the economic and social aspect of the

LAJOIE'S GREAT RECORD.

Napoleon Lajoie, the "king of ball players," was born at Woodstock, N.Y., Sept. 3, 1875. His first professional engagement was with Fall River, Mass., in 1895. This was his last season as a professional ball player and he is doing during his last season.

He first started as a catcher, but his first batting made him more desirable so he was shifted to the outfield, where he made good work in the New England league that he soon attracted the attention of Billy Nash, who managed the Philadelphia Nationals, and he signed him to play with that club. He made his first appearance in the major league on Aug. 12, 1896, and he has been with the major league since.

In 1901 he signed with Connie Mack who managed the Philadelphia Athletics. That year he was the leading batsman of the country. The next year the supreme court rendered a decision to the effect that the option clause of the Philadelphia Nationals was effective in the case of Lajoie Bill Bernhard and Frazier, so Lajoie and Bernhard signed with Cleveland. As soon as Lajoie came to Cleveland the team turned from a tail-end to a team that has a chance for the pennant every season since.

When the two major leagues were formed in 1903 Lajoie returned to Connie Mack and this created the excitement of a great change which hung over him when he joined the Cleveland Indians.

There is only one ball player in the game who compares for an instant with the leader of the Naps, and he is Hank Wagner, the great shortstop of the Pittsburgh National league club.

Each league of course, give the palm to their favorite, but it is admitted generally that Lajoie is the greatest ball player of the age.

Lajoie, in spite of the fact that he is the king of them all and stands in a class by himself, is a great, unassuming man. Although he has been given the extreme of praise for a hero worshipping public for twelve years, he is still the plain, quiet man he always was. In fact, those who associated with him early in his career as a ball player, assert that all athletic honors which have come to him, have tempered his disposition rather than caused him to hold aloof from players and fans.

Lajoie's fielding is characterized by a grace and ease of movement possessed by no other player. Were he of the Wagner type, a man with clubs at hand, there is no doubt of the verdict of the baseball loving public. But Lajoie does not do that. He makes the hard ones look easy and pulls them off with ease and ease as though the ball were coming straight to him. In St. Louis game recently he established a new ground record of second base and got one of the bestest plays in the game today, when he made the play look so easy that it passed almost unnoted.

In batting he stands well back from the plate runs up on the ball and hits it a vicious blow. His reputation as a "slugger" is such that it is well known that he can hit an extra base ball hit except on a sharp line drive, because opposing fielders invariably lack the force when he is at bat. Lajoie is one of the greatest "place hitters" in the business and gets most of his success by dumping the ball just over the infield where he can see an opening.

REMARKABLE BICYCLE RACE.

Wm. Wells, of the Midland C. and C. Co., Birmingham, rode from London to John O'Hara, Ireland, in 1907. He left London at 6 a.m. on Tuesday and covered the 89 1/2 miles in three days, 8 hours and four minutes, beating the previous record, made as recently as last June by Tom Peck, also a member of the Midland C. and C. Co., by 4 hours, 18 minutes. Wells, who rode a third time, turned back towards Ireland in an endeavor to break the 100 mile record in 4 days, 9 hours and 3 minutes standing the credit of 100 miles. In this he succeeded. Wells after a good sleep, started the morning after his arrival from Ireland. He finished at 1.41 in the morning, beating O'Hara's record by an hour and 22 minutes.

ONE OF SILK O'LOUGHLIN.

Here's a story that Silk O'Loughlin, the crack umpire of the American League, tells on himself. "I played on an amateur team in Rochester and my position was left field. The next year I was called when I was just a kid. I was a 19 ball and, and could throw more than fairly. But at batting I was a failure. Jack Townsend, formerly of the Cleveland team, always reminded me of myself. He hit me just as I did.

"Well, we were playing a hot match at Silver Lake, near Rochester, one day and I had my accustomed place in the batting order right above the pitcher. In the ninth we got two men on base one out and me up. We had only one strike left, and the manager, after thinking for a time, decided to send me up and let the batsman bat for the pitcher. 'Strike out,' he said, 'and then send a double play.

The first baseman, and the rest won the game for me. Right there I retired as a player. The fellows were good enough to insist that I should stay, but I was obstinate. I finally compromised by consenting to umpire for them, and in this way I suppose I worked into the job I've got now."—New York Press.

FAIRBANKS WAS TURNED DOWN

Indians Methods Defeat Him for Delegates to General Conference.

The constant falling off in the vice-president's vote discouraged his friends, and when the result of the fifth ballot was announced his name was withdrawn, a friend making the statement that the vice-president had won the vote, but that his friends had thought to honor him.

Up to the meeting of the laymen's delegation this morning it was supposed that Mr. Fairbanks would be a winner. His friends had been very busy with delegates during the conference and, so far as surface indications showed, there seemed to be general acquiescence in the desire to elect him as one of the quinquennial delegates.

There were eighteen candidates for seven places and it was given out that the vice-president would head the delegation by being selected by acclamation. Early this morning however, the same laymen asserted that it would be a shame to turn down one of the best and most consistent standing in the church, who served to the honor and give it a boost or increase by his election; that it was but fair that the effort should be taken on all the candidates and let each stand on his own merits before the delegates.

In the meantime two questions had been much discussed among the lay delegates. One was the serving of the extensive at the Fairbanks dinner and the other was the effort of some of the vice-president's friends to secure the responsibility upon President Roosevelt. Considerable feeling was manifested over both incidents, and when laymen assembled the apparent effect of Mr. Fairbanks' action had changed to a question of his getting through even by acclamation.

The first light came when the delegates met at a decisive vote to permit the selection of Fairbanks by acclamation. All the candidates were put in nomination. It required thirty-five votes to elect all delegates. On the first ballot two delegates were chosen. Mr. Fairbanks received 70 votes. On the second ballot two other candidates were chosen, and the Fairbanks vote fell to 65. The third ballot he received 60 votes, on the fourth 47 votes and on the fifth 30 votes.
